

Why Choose IvyClimbing?

For Visitors: Rising Freshmen through First-Semester Juniors

Hospitality: Come visit us at our friendly Sunnyvale office—we'll be glad to see you! The coffee is always flowing, and we serve more snacks than anyone should eat.

Expertise: IvyClimbing's advisors share a dedication to keeping up-to-date with college admissions practices and strategies. Our diverse backgrounds contribute to a team approach: we consult and collaborate in order to better answer your questions about courses, extracurricular activities, summer programs, testing, and more. With our combined experience advising pre-college students, we are ready to help you shine.

Referral-Based Business: All of our students find us through word of mouth, not through paid advertisement.

Focus: We give 100% of our attention to our college admissions advising service. Unlike some other services, we do not teach SAT prep classes, or offer other services on the side. We concentrate solely on your journey to college.

Follow-Up: Within two business days of your meeting, your advisor will send you a detailed summary, including an action plan with links to summer programs and/or other resources.

Continuity: As your student matures, when you return each term or each year, your advisor will review the notes taken at your last meeting. This allows your family to make the most of your time with us.

Productivity: Sometimes families think that when it comes to advising, more is better, but that is not true. We schedule meetings as needed—we want students to follow through on what we've already talked about! Colleges want students to be dedicated and consistent in their activities. Therefore, as much as possible, we want students to study for rigorous classes and follow their passions, whether building robots or playing the violin. Of course, students should talk to us when questions arise, when they have exciting updates to share, or when considering a change in academic plans or extracurricular activities.
